QID : 121171 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

When I think of my family's history on the land. I experience a pang of regret. Unlike much of the arid West, where the land has gone virtually unchanged for centuries, my place of origin, western Kansas, has been torn up by agriculture. The flat plains, excellent soil, and sparse but just adequate rainfall permitted farming; therefore farming prevailed, and a good 90% of the original sod prairie is gone. The consequence, in human terms, is that our relationship to our place has always felt primarily mercantile. We used the land and denied, or held at bay, its effect on us. Yet from my earliest childhood, when the most of the Kansas prairie was still intact, I've known that the land also had a romantic quality. I've felt moved by the expanse of it, enthralled by size. I take pride in my identity as a plains daughter.

Which of the following is the most accurate statement of the author's position?

Options:

- 1) The presence of the people has enriched the plain's habitat.
- 2) Farming has improved the soil of the plains.
- 3) Farming has chemically polluted the plains.
- 4) Farming has eroded the natural beauty of the plains.

Correct Answer: Farming has eroded the natural beauty of the plains.

Candidate Answer: Farming has eroded the natural beauty of the plains.

QID : 121176 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

Most economists in the United States seem captivated by the spell of the free market. Consequently, nothing seems good or normal that does not accord with the requirements of the free market. A price that is determined by the seller or, for that matter (for that matter: so far as that is concerned), established by anyone other than the aggregate of consumers seems pernicious. Accordingly, it requires a major act of will to think of price-fixing (the determination of prices by the seller) as both "normal" and having a valuable economic function. In fact, price-fixing is normal in all industrialized societies because the industrial system itself provides, as an effortless consequence of its own development, the price-fixing that it requires. Modern industrial planning requires and rewards great size. Hence, a comparatively small number of large firms will be competing for the same group of consumers. That each large firm will act with consideration of its own needs and thus avoid selling its products for more than its competitors charge is commonly recognized by advocates of free-market economic theories. But each large firm will also act with full consideration of the needs that it has in common with the other large firms competing for the same customers.

What does not seem as not good or normal in the context of this essay?

Options:

- 1) the new interest in free market
- 2) being captivated by spell of the free market

3) that which does not accord with the requirement of the free market

4) the economists who are captivated by the free market

Correct Answer: that which does not accord with the requirement of the free market

Candidate Answer: the new interest in free market

QID : 121177 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

Who, according to the economists, are the right group of people to set the price of a commodity?

Options:

1) the aggregate of consumers

2) the buyers

3) the sellers

4) the economists

Correct Answer: the aggregate of consumers

Candidate Answer: the aggregate of consumers

QID : 121178 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

Most economists in the United States seem captivated by the spell of the free market. Consequently, nothing seems good or normal that does not accord with the requirements of the free market. Price-fixing is a phenomenon that is normal in -

Options:

1) agricultural societies

2) industrialized societies

3) pre-industrial societies

4) globalised societies

Correct Answer: industrialized societies

Candidate Answer: industrialized societies

QID : 121179 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

Most economists in the United States seem captivated by the spell of the free market. Consequently, nothing seems good or normal that does not accord with the requirements of the free market. A price that is determined by the seller or, for that matter (for that matter: so far as that is concerned), established by anyone other than the aggregate of consumers seems pernicious. A major act of will will bring about price-fixing that will be seen as -

Options:

1) effective and productive

2) constructive and practical

3) normal and having valuable economic function

4) systematic and relevant

Correct Answer: normal and having valuable economic function

Candidate Answer: normal and having valuable economic function

QID : 121180 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

Most economists in the United States seem captivated by the spell of the free market. Consequently, nothing seems good or normal that does not accord with the requirements of the free market. A price that is determined by the seller or, for that matter (for that matter: so far as that is concerned), established by anyone other than the aggregate of consumers seems pernicious. Selling a commodity at a price that is not more than that charged by competitors is -

Options:

- 1) rejected by the free market system
- 2) opposed by the advocates of the free market theories
- 3) considered suspicious by the free market theorists
- 4) recognized by the advocates of the free market theories

Correct Answer: recognized by the advocates of the free market theories

Candidate Answer: recognized by the advocates of the free market theories

QID : 121181 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

But the war did not cease; though friend and foe alike were almost drowned in blood. It seemed as powerful as eternity, and in time Tony Vassall too went to battle and was killed. The country gave Patience a widow's pension, as well a touching inducement to marry again; she died of grief. Many people died in those days, it was not strange at all. Nathan and his wife got so rich that after the war they died of overeating, and their daughter Olive came into a vast fortune and a Trustee.

The writer says war is

Options:

- 1) bloodless
- 2) partial
- 3) destructive
- 4) unimportant

Correct Answer: destructive

Candidate Answer: destructive

QID : 121182 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

QID : 121186 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

All art is, in an important sense, an escape. There is a sense in which the capacity to escape from his present experience, to use his accumulated consciousness of the past to project a vision of the future, is man's greatest and distinguishing ability. We must not forget the force of Aristotle's argument that poetry is valuable precisely because it shows men not simply as they are, but as they ought to be or (in terms more sympathetic to us today) as they are capable of becoming.

According to the author, all art is

Options:

- 1) a reflection of life.
- 2) art
- 3) an escape
- 4) an important sense.

Correct Answer: an escape

Candidate Answer: an escape

QID : 121187 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

All art is, in an important sense, an escape. There is a sense in which the capacity to escape from his present experience, to use his accumulated consciousness of the past to project a vision of the future, is man's greatest and distinguishing ability. We must not forget the force of Aristotle's argument that poetry is valuable precisely because it shows men not simply as they are, but as they ought to be or (in terms more sympathetic to us today) as they are capable of becoming.

The author believes that man's greatest and distinguishing ability is

Options:

- 1) his ability to project the future
- 2) his capacity to escape from his present experience

- 4) All of the above.

Correct Answer: All of the above.

Candidate Answer: [NOT ANSWERED]

QID : 121191 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

To avoid the various foolish opinions to which mankind are prone, no superhuman brain is required. A few simple rules will keep you free, not from all errors, but from silly errors. If the matter is one that can be settled by observation, make the observation yourself. Aristotle could have avoided the mistake of thinking that women have fewer teeth than men, by the simple device of asking Mrs. Aristotle to keep her mouth open while he counted. Thinking that you know when in fact you do not is a bad mistake, to which we are all prone. I believe myself that hedgehogs eat black beetles, because I have been told that they do; but if I were writing a book on the habits of hedgehogs, I should not commit myself until I had seen one enjoying this diet. Aristotle, however, was less cautious. Ancient and medieval writers knew all about unicorns and salamanders; not one of them thought it necessary to avoid dogmatic statements about them because he had never seen one of them.

The author portrays mankind as

Options:

- 1) superhuman
- 2) by and large ignorant
- 3) intelligent
- 4) ancient

Correct Answer: by and large ignorant

Candidate Answer: by and large ignorant

QID : 121192 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

Correct Answer: he has never seen hedgehogs eating beetles

Candidate Answer: he has never seen hedgehogs eating beetles

QID : 121194 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

To avoid the various foolish opinions to which mankind are prone, no superhuman brain is required. A few simple rules will keep you free, not from all errors, but from silly errors. If the matter is one that can be settled by observation, make the observation yourself. Aristotle could have avoided the mistake of thinking that women have fewer teeth than men, by the simple device of asking Mrs. Aristotle to keep her mouth open while he counted. Thinking that you know when in fact you do not is a bad mistake, to which we are all prone. I believe myself that hedgehogs eat black beetles, because I have been told that they do; but if I were writing a book on the habits of hedgehogs, I should not commit myself until I had seen one enjoying this diet. Aristotle, however, was less cautious. Ancient and medieval writers knew all about unicorns and salamanders; not one of them thought it necessary to avoid dogmatic statements about them because he had never seen one of them.

The author is in favour of drawing conclusions on the basis of

Options:

- 1) discussion
- 2) consultation
- 3) observation
- 4) reasoning

Correct Answer: observation

Candidate Answer: observation

QID : 121196 - Read the following passage carefully and choose the most appropriate answer to the question out of the four alternatives.

In short, to write a good letter you must approach the job in the lightest and most casual way. You must be personal, not abstract. You must not say, 'This is too small a thing to put down'. You must say, 'This is just the sort of small thing we talk about at home. If I tell them this they will see me, as it were they'll hear my voice, they'll know what I'm talking about'. That is the purpose of a letter. Carlyle had the trick to perfection. He is writing from Scotsbrig to his brother Alec in Canada and he begins talking about his mother. Good old Mother, he says, 'she is even now sitting at my back, trying at another table to write you a small word with her own hand; the first time she has tried such a thing for a year past. It is Saturday night, after dark; we are in the east room in a hard, dry evening with a bright fire to our two selves; Jenny and her Barns are 'scouring up things' in the other end of the house; and below stairs the winter operations of the farm go on, in a subdued tone; you can conceive the scene! How simple it is and yet how perfect. Can not you see Alec reading it in his far-off home and his eyes moistening at the picture of his old mother sitting and writing her last message to him on earth?

Abstract' in the passage means

Options:

- 1) a summary
- 2) not paying attention
- 3) concrete
- 4) not having a physical reality

Correct Answer: not having a physical reality

Candidate Answer: a summary
